

Everything a family owns, and everyone who looks after it, on one record.

TitanOS is the system a private wealth firm runs its households on. Properties, portfolio, cash flow, documents, obligations and the people around them — in one place, under your own name. Not a reporting tool bolted onto a practice. The practice itself, running.

One record, not five tools

Properties with their lenders, taxes, insurers and vendors. Portfolio with balance history. Cash flow with projections. A Vault that knows what expires and when. The assistant answers from that record and nothing else — ask what the household spends on landscaping and you get a real figure, traced to named vendors, not an estimate.

It does the work, not just the reporting

Obligations and workflows run a premium call or a K-1 chase end to end: draft, review, send, record. That is the part reporting platforms hand back to your staff, and it is the difference between an expert carrying eight households and carrying twenty-five.

Your name on all of it

Your palette, logo, templates, sending domain and client-facing PDFs, resolved per firm at runtime from a single record — no rebuild, no fork. Your own database and your own deployment, not a shared tenancy. Your clients never see the word TitanOS.
